

Wrapped In Kindness - Pet in Need

Summer 2006

We'd like you to meet Ross, who was just your typical Greyhound, up until about a week ago. Ross had spent a good part of his life racing his heart out for his owner, until he suffered a broken leg during his last race.

As is the typical fate of most racers, once they're injured or aren't winning anymore, their lives aren't highly valued. Almost immediately after Ross suffered his broken leg, his owner ordered his trainer to have Ross put to sleep.

Ross' trainer just couldn't do that to this magnificent dog, and contacted Bay Area Greyhound Adoptions, Inc. (BAGA) in Tampa, FL. The rescue group offered to take Ross, but Ross' trainer knew she had to act fast to get him out of the kennel, where his owner might see that she hadn't carried out his wishes. Ross was quickly relocated by his very kind-hearted trainer, and taken to another kennel where he was allowed to spend the night and wait for the rescue group to come and get him.

Once in the hands of BAGA, Ross was evaluated by a vet who determined that the surgery to fix his leg would cost about $1400. This estimate includes a very generous 30% discount by the surgeon, who routinely works with this rescue group. BAGA has asked for our help in raising the $1400 for Ross' surgery.
